

YOUTH & THE GREEN ECONOMY DIALOGUE

They say that smart is the new green. What careers will the smart, sustainable city offer its citizens? The time to chart your smart career path is now. The Youth and the Green Economy Seminar provides a global view of the way in which skills development in the smart, green economy is progressing, and examines the opportunities available in the vital fields of renewable energy, water and waste management, industrial design, engineering, manufacturing, project management, and tourism and hospitality.
